EDUCATIONAL STUDIES

Contact: (845) 257-2831

The Department of Educational Studies & Leadership offers psychological, sociological, and philosophical foundations courses required by educational programs within the School of Education and across campus. It houses the Master of Professional Studies in Social Justice Educational Studies and the Educational Administration program, helping prepare tomorrow’s education leaders to meet the challenges of a diverse and demanding educational environment.

The Department includes:

- The Educational Foundations Unit, in which students take courses that address political, social, and historical issues through the history of American education;
- Educational Administration Programs, in which faculty are committed to the preparation of caring, critical, and reflective school administrators; and
- the Social Justice Educational Studies Program, through which students who wish to develop skills working with diverse learners can pursue graduate-level degrees combining education and human service.

Graduate Programs in Educational Studies
