About

The Honors Program is not just about academics, though that is certainly our focus. We are interested in creating an experience that is both challenging and rewarding. Therefore, in addition to offering seminars attended by interested students and enthusiastic professors, we offer camaraderie and a venue for rest and relaxation. The Honors Program allows you to join a network of students and professors who are committed to the life of the mind but are also interested in different and active ways of learning. Being an honors student is about being motivated and involved in multiple facets of the college life.

The Honors Program consists of around 320 students. Once admitted to the program, students take special Honors seminars, which are interdisciplinary and small in size (usually around 15 students). Unlike traditional lecture courses, Honors seminars emphasize dialogue and non-lecture based learning; students are expected to come to class with something to say and to actively participate in debate and discussion.

Mission

The mission of the Honors Program is to provide an enhanced intellectual experience in a climate conducive to interaction among highly motivated students and faculty. This experience will seek to develop and intensify skills from a conceptual point of view in a diverse, multidisciplinary environment that nurtures independent thinking, creativity, and social responsibility.

Goals and Outcomes

Goals

- To build and sustain a diverse community that reflects the student body of the campus.
- To integrate this scholarly community within the larger campus.
- To promote deep engagement with ideas through innovative pedagogy and creative, interdisciplinary curriculum.
- To nurture intellectual leadership as well as a sense of social responsibility and civic engagement - on campus, in the village, within the state, or, ideally, internationally.

Learning Outcomes

- To demonstrate excellence in analysis and problem solving skills.
- To demonstrate an ability to theorize using interdisciplinary processes.
- To develop communication skills (oral, written, collaborative).
- To develop skills to communicate with general and specialized audiences.
- To practice and reflect on civic engagement.

Program Requirements

Honors students must:

- Maintain a GPA of 3.3 in order to stay in the program.
- Complete 40 hours of community service before graduation.
- Take the introductory course HON201 The Individual and Society (required for first-year students entering the program).
- Take at least 4 Honors seminars before graduation.
- Complete a Senior Thesis or Project and present it in a public forum.

Seminar/Course Requirements and Schedule Planning

Honors Program seminar requirements vary based on when a student is accepted into the program. Beyond HON201 The Individual and Society (the mandatory seminar that all incoming freshmen must take), the Honors Program offers students the flexibility to take their seminars when it is conducive to their schedule. Interdisciplinary seminars change every semester, and most fulfill General Education requirements. Enrollment in Honors seminars is limited to 15 students to ensure direct and regular interaction with professors and engage in active discussion during class sessions.

Honors-designated major courses are meant to engage Honors students with the course material on a deeper level. Honors students in these courses do additional work to receive Honors Program credit.

Below is a breakdown of how many seminars each class is required to take and the ways in which they can complete this requirement.
